Get Ready for the Interview

Google your interviewee! Find out about their background so you can ask great questions.

Read up on their company, too. Especially if you're interested in a job, read the About page of the website at least.

Write a short focus statement. What are you hoping to get out of your interview? (This can help you decide what to ask.)

Sample Questions:

How did you decide you wanted to pursue this field?

What challenges have you faced along the way?

What does your day-to-day work look like?

Do you have advice for someone younger starting out?
