

Get Ready for the Interview

Google your interviewee!

Find out about their background so you can ask great questions.

Read up on their company, too.

Especially if you're interested in a job, read the About page of the website at least.

Write a short focus statement.

What are you hoping to get out of your interview? (This can help you decide what to ask.)

Sample Questions

Do you have advice for someone younger starting out?

How did you decide you wanted to pursue this field?

What challenges have you faced along the way?

What does your day-to-day work look like?
